Course Schedule: Spring 2024 January 8t April 26| 11:00 t 11:50 a.m.M/W/F | #336 Hollenbeck

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This honors course focuses on the impact of communication technology, specifically personal media, on close relationships (e.g., friendships, family relationships, romantic relationships, other relationships) This upper-level course will use theory grounded in relational communication and communication technology

To complete the work in this course, students should expect to spend about times as much time outside of class as they spend in class working to understand content. This means the work outside of class for this course should require approximately 8 hours per week. This will vary depending on the individual student and the specific assignments due in a particular week. Direct instruction will be met in a variety of ways in and outside of the class. In HONR300, you can expect one-on-one meetings about oral communication assignments, out of class experiences, and sessions at the O3() 0 612 743(k).CT /F3 1r 0 612 792 re W* n BT /F3 1

LEARNING OUTCOMES

This course meets two general education learning outcomes:

LO 3: Students will effectively communicate their ideas orally, considering audience and purpose.

LO 9: Students will analyze social systems or human behaviors using knowledge, theories, and methods appropriate to the social sciences

EVALUATION

Final grades

Academic dishonesty is a serious violation that is counter to the purpose and aims of Wittenberg University. A substantiated case of academic dishonesty may result in permanent dismissal from the University, suspension for a designated period of time or lesser sanction as deemed appropriate. Suspected instances will be submitted to the Department Chair and Dean. Honesty is a fundamental principle that all students are expected to embrace. All cases of cheating, including plagiarism, will result in a grade of XF for the course. If you have questions, contact me. You are obligated to support a culture of academic integrity.

2. Use of electronic devices during class is not allowed unless students are instructed to do so. Students who violate this policy may be asked to leave and may lose participation points in the course.

3. All submitted work must adhere fully to the most current APA formatting requirements. Use the Department of Communication APA Manual, provided to you on Moodle, which shows you how to format your title page, document, and all source citations. Late work will be assessed a penalty of ten points for each day the assignment is late (including weekends); papers beyond one week late will not be graded. To earn the credit for the LO 3, all oral communication assignments must be completed.

4. The examinations will be administered during our class period. Students should begin the exams on time to ensure they have the full time. Failure to take the exam will result in a zero unless there are significant extenuating circumstances.

5. Make a habit of visiting Moodle and checking your Wittenberg email regularly, as I rely on those channels to disseminate information to the students. E-mail is the best way to reach me.
